Italy At The Rubicon

Sunday the Italians will vote in an election that will decide their country's future.

If Italy votes to cast her lot with the western world, the war-born poverty and discontent on which Communism thrives will still be there but, under the European recovery plan, the resources of the west will be available for rebuilding.

If Italy goes Communist, she would cross a rubicon that cannot be re-crossed. More ominous, the Communists would prove they can win an election without the tender ministrations of the Red army or a Moscow-controlled secret police.

Italy has had a large, adroitly-led Communist party since the Fascist decline allowed it to gain a foothold. When the Communists won a preliminary election at Pescara in March, the Christian Democratic party launched a more vigorous campaign, backed by positive moves on the international scene. The first of these was the French proposal that Trieste be returned to Italy, followed by a renewal of the move to gain Italy membership in the United Nations. Both actions were vetoed by Russia, to the embarrassment of Italian Communists.

The United States has endeavored to sustain democracy in Italy by sending coal, wheat, ships, financial support and words of encouragement from Italian-Americans. The Communists have cynically sneered at these tactics as moves to buy the election. Whatever the election outcome, Americans know their policy hasn't included intimidation and threats of violence and civil war. They know that Sunday's election will be free on Sunday every Italian can vote according to the dictates of his conscience.

Unified Defense

Disagreement about national defense needs has broken out at the high command level and spread to the house of representatives. Its unanimous decision on Thursday to authorize air force expansion above the limit presumably agreed on by Secretary of Defense Forrestal is a serious challenge to Forrestal's viewpoint on a "balanced" defense program.

It is becoming apparent that there is more to unification of the armed services than passage of a law. As President Truman has said, the services themselves must learn to think in terms of unification. Beyond that, congressmen and their constituents must learn to think that way. Undeniably, the source of much of the rivalry for position originates with civilian partisans of the various branches of defense.

While no one wants unification to stifle initiative and certainly not to gag discussion, the only way there can be any real unification is for everybody concerned to think of the problem of defense as a whole, not as a problem of building up one branch of the armed services out of proportion to the other branches.

Revising The U. N.

The proposal of 16 senators to revise the United Nations charter is but one of a dozen similar resolutions before the senate foreign relations committee. This one has the advantage of imposing bipartisan auspices but it is likely to die in committee because it involves congress in matters which are rightfully the State department's and the American U. N. delegation's.

The proposal would restrict world armament, curb the veto power and set up an international police force recruited from the small nations. One of the plan's sponsors, Senator Ferguson of Michigan, characterizes it as "a new answer to Russia." Undoubtedly it would be unsatisfactory to Moscow. That being the case, the disarmament provision would be useless, and all that would be left would be much the same lineup that now exists in the U. N.

The U. N. never has lived up to more than a fraction of the high hopes held for it. But no matter how disappointing it has been, it isn't likely to be improved by a congressional overhauling, exciting the suspicions and misgivings of even the most friendly nations.

Moral Contempt

Extreme economic pressure is being used against the U. S. judiciary to force a decision favorable to John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers in their trial for contempt of court.

Many members of the union are staying away from work pending the court's decision.

They are making it plain that in the event of an unfavorable decision they might stay away from work indefinitely.

They are putting on a demonstration of their ability to close down the coal mines again if the government does not capitulate.

Even more disturbing than the implications of legal contempt are the implications of moral contempt in a mass action by thousands of citizens challenging the authority of government to act in behalf of the general welfare and making the challenge tangible with economic pressure.

Impulse or Strategem

We wonder whether the "lie-down strike" of Wall Street bankers was just a sudden inspiration, or whether a few had planned it carefully and the rest followed suit, meekly and stupidly.

It is hard to tell from a photograph whether a policeman with a night stick is trying to pull a striker to his feet or to club him to the ground. But one thing we're sure of — if such pictures are circulated in precision that the Communists there will be quick to use the prone striker, the officer with his stick and the march down of Wall Street in a newly flattering story of their own conception.

The Stars Say

BY GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, April 17

Following some profound, analytical and far-seeing thought, it is probable there may be a definite turn in the tide of impeded, complicated or tricky events, in which discretion may "prove to be the better part of valor."

This program of strategy and astute action is likely to gain impetus by "turning on the charm." Even practical and every-day frustrations could yield to finesse, grace and magnetism.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find that they have reached a workable solution to stubborn difficulties by taking time out for profound and logical analysis of underlying factors for delay and defeat.

After wise consideration, it is indicated that the purely personal equation may have vital and happy significance. Social, cultural, romantic techniques, even charm and magnetism seem destined to play a large part in "turning the magic key in the door of Destiny." Finesse, discretion, possibly money, may be dynamic in promoting prestige.

A child born on this day may find that its capacity for serious thought and constructive action may be enhanced by discreet use of charm, diplomacy and personal magnetism.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

BY WALTER KIRKMAN

The bones of prehistoric bird to feet tall have arrived in New York but most persons seem to be looking for a steak not more than 80 tall.

I won't say prices are high but a judge ruled that $2 a week is low income. So naturally we are becoming the best-fed members of all time.

In fact I hear the poor house is planning an extra traffic lane for chauffeur-driven cars.

The cause of inflation is given as "too much money in circulation." Although any number of politicians have volunteered to take out of circulation all they can get.

We are getting a lot of advice including that of the birds who say "don't have too much money and don't quit."

Then he calls up next day and says "what happened?"

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Is Plane Travel Harmful?

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

A QUESTION which physicians are hearing more and more often nowadays is, "Doctor, will it do me any harm to go by plane?" Many people like the speed and convenience of air travel but want to know first whether there are medical reasons against making such a trip.

Generally, there are not, particularly where, as is often the case, the airplane is equipped with a pressure-controlled cabin.

On the other hand, if the air pressure within the cabin is not controlled, passengers must adjust themselves to changes in the air pressure.

Healthy Person

The normal, healthy person will be able to do this with little or no discomfort but the same pressure changes may be dangerous for those with some types of heart or lung disease.

Among them are those who have had the treatment known as pneumothorax. This treatment, which is used in tuberculosis, consists of injecting air into the chest cavity to bring about partial collapse of the lung or lungs.

If such a person should fly in a plane without a pressure-controlled cabin, serious shifting of the structures within the chest cavity may occur during the trip. Hence, nobody with such a condition should take an airplane trip in a plane that does not have pressure control of the cabin, according to Dr. Frederick Hopkins Shillito, of Columbia University.

Lung Tissues

Patients who have a great deal of scarring of the lung tissues or other disorders which restrict the breathing capacity are not troubled during an airplane flight.

Those who have asthma seldom have an attack during an airplane trip. However, it is suggested that oxygen be available for the emergency treatment of such patients should an attack occur.

Sitting quietly in an airplane causes no more strain than moderate exercise on the ground. Thus anyone even a heart patient—who is able to carry on ordinary activities without distress, should stand air travel satisfactorily.

Short Distance

If walking for a short distance causes shortness of breath in a patient with heart disease, he should not travel by airplane unless facilities are provided for giving him oxygen continuously during the trip.

Patients who have anemia or lessening of the coloring matter or red cells in the blood usually can take airplane trips without any difficulty.

However, if the blood count is below half the normal, it may be necessary to give a blood transfusion before the trip is taken in an airplane.

If the person has had a rupture of the ear drum, which has recently healed, it may reopen during an airplane trip, but this, as a rule, can be prevented by chewing gum since this helps equalize the pressure in the ear.

It is also interesting to note that infected sinuses often empty themselves of secretions as the plane rises in the air, but the sinuses may close up when the plane comes down, causing some pain.

Travel or motor sickness may be prevented by the use of certain drugs, such as tropine or hyoscine.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

W. O. T. What would be the cause of pain in the back around the left shoulder?

A. Such pain may come from many causes, such as inflammation of the muscles or nerves, a disturbance of the shoulder joint, or from inflammation of a bursa, which is a sac containing fluid, around the shoulder joint.

A thorough study by an orthopedic specialist is indicated.

Letters to Dr. Bundesen should be addressed in care of 235 E. 43th St., New York City.

The Nation Today

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, April 14 — Two big differences: John L. Lewis and Judge T. Alan Goldsborough—and what they represent.

Lewis... Ex-miner, big, paunchy, bushy-haired, bass-drum voice, quick to anger, a face that clouds up fast... He's knocked men down with his fists.

The judge... Ex-congressman, almost bald, low voice, a calm, pleasant face... He looks too mild to ban a fly with a law book.

He poured ice water over Lewis in 1946, cooled him plenty, may do it again.

The judge brought Lewis to trial Wednesday on a contempt of court charge.

More than a week ago another judge ordered Lewis to get his striking coal miners back to work. Lewis and the miners ignored him.

Then Lewis was ordered to court Monday to tell, if he could, why he shouldn't be tried for contempt for ignoring the order.

Then by accident—because of the way judges are rotated here—Judge Goldsborough was assigned to handle Lewis on Monday.

A few minutes before court time Monday Lewis ordered his men back to work. Too late. The judge told him he'd have to stand trial for contempt today.

In 1946 the same kind of thing happened, except then Judge Goldsborough told Lewis not to let his men go out on strike. They went. So Lewis ignored him.

The judge tried Lewis for contempt. Lewis argued the judge had no right to order men to work if they didn't want to. He'll argue that again.

That day in 1946 the judge listened to Lewis coolly, told him that as a citizen he should have obeyed the court first, argued about it later.

He found Lewis guilty. The penalty: a $10,000 fine for Lewis, a $3,500,000 fine for Lewis' union.

THAT DAY rage flamed up in Lewis. He rose and almost roared at the judge: "... You can fine me any amount..."

The judge looked straight at Lewis and without raising his voice warned him to be careful, that he could be found in contempt all over again.

Words froze in Lewis' throat, either because the judge had chilled him or his own lawyers, tugging on his coat, persuaded him to hush.

Lewis wouldn't take defeat like that. He appealed to the Supreme court. The Supreme upheld the judge on all but one point. It cut the union's fine from $3,500,000 to $700,000.

The Supreme court told Lewis what Goldsborough had told him: You're supposed to obey a judge's order and argue about it later.

All his life Lewis has been one of the strong men of American labor, using the best weapon he knows to win his way: A strike.

Until the 1946 case Judge Goldsborough probably was little known outside Washington and the Maryland district he represented in congress.

Lewis represents 400,000 coal miners who have had to fight step by step for years to win better wages and working conditions.

The judge represents the law and because of that, the 145,000,000 people in this country...

Lewis represents the right of anyone to challenge a law he doesn't like, to see whether it's a good law or applies to him.

The judge represents the might of the law in compelling anyone to obey it, or to pay the penalty for not obeying it.

Herbert Believes Safety Teaching Needed In Schools

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, April 16 — Gov. Thomas J. Herbert thinks courses to stress elimination of safety hazards should be made a part of the program in Ohio schools.
He told the all Ohio safety congress last night that already 140 Ohio high schools are teaching driver training. This program began for a suggestion at last year's safety congress.
One thousand delegates heard the governor and other speakers discuss several phases of safety yesterday. By the end of the congress on Thursday, 150 will have had their say on all safety angles.
Governor Herbert listed four basic elements to a successful safety program:

1. Lists Four Points
2. Scientific research to eliminate hazards, adequate regulations to insure safety precautions, impartial and continuous law enforcement.
3. E. Trainer of Akron, vice president of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. told delegates that wool-gathering by workers caused many industrial accidents.
4. "I am convinced," he said, "that hundreds of accidents can be definitely blamed on preoccupation. It is amazing how these mental lapses can lead to an accident. The mind is working all right? But on some other subject."

The answer, Trainer said, was development of safe working habits. With safe operation made habitual, the worker can more safely rely on his subconscious automatic work, he said.
More consideration should be given disabled persons, said Dr. C. R. Shook of Toledo in another talk. He is medical director of the Industrial Relations Division at Owens-Illinois Glass Co. in Toledo.
Many industrial plants now will not hire a handicapped person solely because if you hire a person who has previously suffered the loss of an eye, leg or arm, and this unfortunate individual loses the opposite member, then management may be forced to pay for the sum total of both losses," the doctor said.
He urged correction of this ruling and the hiring of more handicapped persons.

How Fast Is a Snail? Mile a Decade, Claim

PHILADELPHIA—Snail hunting is nothing new to 85-year-old Dr. Henry A. Pillsbury, curator of mollusks at the Academy of Natural Sciences here. His trips to far-off places usually net him from 10,000 to 20,000 specimens.

He has been hunting snails, and other lowly members of the animal kingdom for 60 years and now is in Lima, Peru, on another quest.

Dr. Pillsbury, who estimates a snail's pace at about one mile a decade, says Hawaii is the best place to study their activities. But he has visited many countries on his snail hunts and this is his second trip to Peru.

Bill Winder discussed "Courtesy While Eating" Wednesday, and on Thursday and today "Courtesy in the Classroom Day" and "In Public Buildings Day" were observed.

Don't Plant Too Early, Gardeners Are Advised

Gardeners itching to get the peas, lettuce and radishes in were advised today by the Ohio State university extension service to lay that shovel down.

"Although earliness is essential in some vegetables," the extension service said, "they should not be planted if the soil is wet. Silt loam and clay loam soils worked when wet will become hard and solid. Such soils will not be productive all summer."

It is better to wait until the soil is dry enough to crumble when it is worked before planting, regardless of how late it might be.

Recent rains, the extension service added, make right now a bad time to get the early planting done.

Leetonia Cancer Drive Launched

Fifty per cent of the funds received will remain in the county to aid in the purchase of technical equipment, personal aid to cancer patients, the maintenance of an information center and when sufficient funds are available, the program plans to establish detection centers and cancer clinics.

East Palestine Man Runs Distinct Milk Glass Plant

EAST PALESTINE, April 16—"I never was afraid of work."

Thus through his own endeavor, John E. Kemple climbed the ladder of success in his vocation and reaching the top rung gave to East Palestine a $60,000 two-tank glass factory, which has the distinction of being the only one in the United States that makes a complete table service in milk glass.

"My father wanted me to be a lawyer," Kemple commented. But he preferred to follow in the footsteps of his father, who was one of a family of glass workers.

A native of Zanesville, the factory owner started to learn his trade at the age of 12 in Moundsville, W. Va., and has worked in this business continuously for 40 years.

In the early days Kemple said that they made quart fruit jars by hand at the rate of 2,000 in four hours. In this machine age they make 36 a minute.

Twenty On Payroll

The difference in working conditions was recalled by the veteran. When he started he received 60 cents for a nine-and-a-half-hour day. Even as a journeyman he was paid only $3. Now he pays his skilled workmen as high as $16 a day. He has 20 employees, most of them women.

Specializing in authentic reproductions of famous antique patterns such as "Ivy in Snow," "Blackberry" and "Lace and Dewdrops," he uses the original moulds and the finest ingredients obtainable.

The individuality of craftsmanship, so prevalent in the days of American settlers is recaptured in these beautiful reproductions.

The first glass factory in the United States was established in 1607 at Jamestown, Va.

Kemple's moulds range in price from $150 to $600. All are more than 50 years old and some of them 75 years.

Silica Sand Base

The base for this glass is silica sand, obtained at Berkley Springs, W. Va. In the processing it is combined with 10 different chemicals, some of which are arsenic, feldspar, kyanite, soda ash, etc.

These chemicals have to be thoroughly mixed to avoid streaking and cracking in the finished product.

This mixture is sealed in a tank and heated to 2500 degrees for from nine to 13 hours. When taken from the tank the glass has a jelly-like appearance. A workman stands at the tank with a long iron poker, around which he twists this substance, then carries it to the next man who cuts it off with a seissors and places it in a hot mould.

After it is moulded into ware the carrier puts the piece into the annealing lehr, an oven like arrangement, where it is cooled ready for inspection. After the pieces are inspected they are packed for shipment.

ment. And there is no waste, for the broken and imperfect pieces are reprocessed.

It takes nine workers to make a water pitcher; also nine to make a goblet and four to make a candlestick. The complete take 11.

Stemware Popular

The stemware is the greatest in demand, Mrs. Kemple, who assists her husband, said.

Besides the table service, the Kemples make novelties. This plant, which has a half-million dollar a year capacity, ships its ware to every state in the union and Canada. The ware is also on sale in most principal cities.

The Kemples, formerly of Akron, secured their East Palestine location through an advertisement in a magazine.

HEDY DOESN'T GO FOR LOOK'S "LOOK"

SANTA MONICA, Calif., April 16—Hedy Lamarr doesn't like the look she says Look magazine gave her. She dislikes it so much she filed suit for $200,000 yesterday against the magazine, alleging that a Look article in the April 13 issue made it appear she had her nose altered by plastic surgery.

The suit said the magazine used two photographs of the actress as "before and after" examples of nasal plastic surgery.

This, declared Hedy's complaint, was untrue. The actress' counsel added: "It is a positive fact that her features have been unaltered and have remained in their natural state since her birth."

A Look representative in New York said "we have heard nothing about the suit."

The fastest thing a human being can do is to wink an eye. That takes an average of one-tenth second.

Smart People Live In Glass Houses, He Says

CHICAGO—An authority on community planning says that home builders who abandon "outmoded tradition" are putting money in their own pockets.

Frank Sohn, a housing expert, believes that "keeping up with the architectural Jones" helps protect the value of a home builder's property.

"Today's outstanding development in home design is the sensible use of glass to create a new concept of indoor-outdoor living," Sohn says.

"The builder who plans a house with old style, small windows is marking it 'vintage 1890' while it is still on the drawing board," Sohn said.

"In 20 years the property will be about as desirable as a Stanley Steamer is to a motorist today."

Medicine of Savages May Aid White Man

MELBOURNE, Australia—Plants used by Australian aborigines for curing warts and ulcers are being sent to the United States for examination by medical scientists.

A government spokesman said a survey has been made of trees, shrubs and grasses found in the tropical forests of Queensland, and preliminary research indicates several important finds have been made.

"The bark of one tree has been found to produce an alkaloid believed to be new to science which has a blistering effect on the skin," the announcement said. "This alkaloid is similar to strychnine. It is now being investigated at Oxford university."

May Delay Building

COLUMBUS, April 16—Gov. Thomas J. Herbert would like to know whether the state should build now or wait a bit to see if prices will go down. He talked the state's building program over with legislative leaders yesterday but no decision was reached on a slowing down. Spiraling costs have caused bids to top estimates in many cases.

For all "one-car" families

For the family which has but one motor car—Pontiac is an extremely wise choice.

First, it is big and beautiful. You can drive it anywhere, any time, with the certain knowledge that it will be admired.

It also gives you the comfort you want, and need. It is safe, too—because it has big, sturdy brakes—and remarkable balance on turns and curves. It provides the performance luxury of General Motors

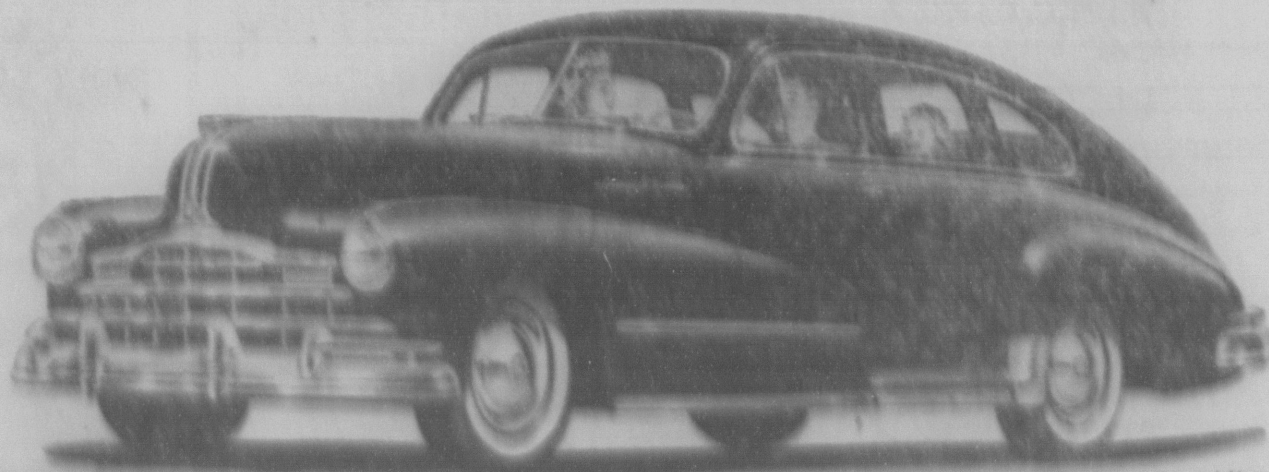

Hydra-Matic Drive*. It is quick and nimble, easy to steer and park—a feature especially appreciated by women. And it is very economical—just as economical, in fact, as any car you can buy.

It is a rare car, indeed, which can offer all these qualities—every one of which is so necessary if a car is to meet the needs of an entire family. Because Pontiac does offer them, it is becoming the choice of more and more people every day.

CORRESPONDENT SAID TO BE SPY

Former Moscow Embassy Worker Accuses Magidoff Openly

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW, April 16—Robert Magidoff, Moscow correspondent for the National Broadcasting Company, was denounced today by his former secretary, a native of Michigan.

In a long letter published in the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia, the secretary, Cecilia Nelson, accused Magidoff of using his position here to collect information for an American espionage service.

She said Magidoff, also correspondent here for the British Exchange Telegraph agency and recently for the McGraw-Hill Publishing Company, has been sending intelligence reports in U. S. diplomatic pouches.

(Magidoff formerly was on the Associated Press staff in Moscow.)

The former secretary, who also is a former employee of the U. S. embassy in Moscow, wrote Izvestia:

"Several days ago, while I was in Magidoff's office, I began to look at a letter which I needed and involuntarily discovered in Magidoff's papers many documents which had not passed through my hands and which had reached Magidoff through the American embassy in Moscow.

"It is evident from these documents that Magidoff has been systematically receiving from the United States assignments for the collection of espionage information in the U. S. S. R. and that in the McGraw-Hill Publishing house, whose official stationery was used for all these letters, there are some employees who are utilizing their employment in this publishing house for purposes of espionage."

"In these letters," she said, "apart from direct assignments in espionage, there are in some cases even instructions how best to make the acquaintance of Soviet persons and best to obtain requisite information."

"In a letter from the United States on the stationery of McGraw-

Hill dated June 26, 1947, addressed to Magidoff, there are instructions to collect detailed information about underground buildings.

"The document gives the following direct indication:

"Our task is to collect on the given question the most detailed and complete information possible. This also applies to other materials having direct bearing on questions on which you will be able to gather information."

ITALIAN CAMPAIGN ENTERS FINAL STAGE

ROME, April 16 — Italy's bitter election campaign entered its last phase today with the Communists apparently still losing ground. The government mounted guard for any last-minute leftist maneuver in the country's "Red north."

A government decree closes campaigning at midnight tomorrow allowing a 32-hour cooling off period before voting starts Sunday morning at 8.

Premier Alcide De Gasperi, Christian Democrat leader, has warned the government will not tolerate trouble on election eve, and has promised it has enough troops to maintain order.

An interior ministry report that the Communist-dominated chamber of labor at Mantua had called a general strike in the northern province of Mantova could not be confirmed. Police at the scene said last night it had not been called yet.

Mantua is the capital of Mantova. The ministry said the reported strike call was in protest against the arrest Tuesday of Cleanti Armondi, Communist Mayor of Serravalle, near Mantua. It said a cache of small arms was found in his home, and included five rifles.

Judge Hart of Columbus called on his brother, Charles Hart, on Tuesday.

Mrs. Harriet Morris spent Saturday with Mrs. William Pries.

The annual meeting of the Men's Congress was held at Akron on Sunday. Those attending from St. Jacob's church were: Rev. Fager, Arthur L. Rudebeck, Cliff Alken, Clifford Farmer, Dean Price, Guy Franks, John Sterrett, and Delbert Sittler.

Myron Phillips was a dinner guest in the home of Paul and Ida Zimmerman where Mrs. Phillips is recuperating.

Martha Zimmerman participated in a dance revue at Sabring High school on Friday night.

PEACE THREATENED IN COLOMBIA AGAIN

BOGOTA, Colombia, April 16—A dead man threatened political peace today in a riot-ravaged Colombia.

He was Jorge Eliecer Gaitan, assassinated leader of the Liberal opposition to Conservative President Mariano Ospina Perez.

His widow said yesterday—the day set for his state funeral—she would not let him be buried until the president resigned. The funeral was postponed.

Gaitan's fatal shooting last Friday touched off a Colombian rebellion that ravaged this capital and interrupted the Pan American conference here.

That meeting—the ninth international conference of American states—resumed yesterday and swiftly split over a name for a Pan American regional organization, with the United States on the losing side. It chose "organization of American states."

In the Bogota rioting, officials have estimated that 300 were killed and 1,000 hurt, but many persons believe other dead lie in the ruins of looted and burned buildings.

Over the government radio last night, Finance Minister Jose Maria Bernal announced that the U. S. Export-Import ban has offered and Colombia will accept a $10,000,000 reconstruction loan. A plane arrived yesterday with $5,000 worth of American Red Cross medical supplies.

"Dead Heat", Track Rarity, Performed by Scullion And Kamasky

Salem High school's track squad won its first dual meet of the year Thursday night at Reilly stadium, easily defeating Louisville 85-33, winning 10 of 14 events.

Salem meets Springfield township at Reilly field today.

Highlight of the meet was an impressive 15.2 second victory in the 120-yard high hurdles by Johnny Huddleston. It was his best time in high school competition and he came dangerously close to the Night Relay record of 15.2, currently held by the famous Harrison Dillard.

A mile run—a dead heat in the mile run—was performed when two Salem runners, Kamasky and Scullion, hit the tape on the same stride. Their time was 4:58.

Other Salem winners included Ross in the 100, Huddleston in the low hurdles, Yeager in the 220, both the 880 and mile relay teams, Theiss in the broad jump and Alexander in the high jump.

Huddleston was high point man in the meet, netting 11 1/4 points on his hurdle victories and a spot on the 880 relay four.

The results:

880 relay—Salem (Ross, J. Miller, Boone, Huddleston) won; Time: 1:29.

440—Boyles (L) won; Yeager (S) second; B. Miller (S) third. Time: 54.4.

Low hurdles — Huddleston (S) won; J. Miller (S) second; Thomas (L) third. Time: 29.2.

880—Kamasky (S) won; Snyder (L) second; Dean (S) third. Time: 2:19.

PLAN TRANSFER OF KITTY HAWK

Smithsonian Institute To Give Wright Brothers Plane Top Position

AP Special Washington Service WASHINGTON, April 16—Red tape is delaying the start of the Kitty Hawk plane's last hop—from London to Washington.

Plans for returning the Wright Brothers' first successful aircraft from England and enshrining it in the Smithsonian institution have been under way since mid-February. But final decisions await formal notification from the executors of Orville Wright's estate.

Meanwhile, Smithsonian officials are unwilling to discuss details of their program for welcoming the wood and fabric biplane.

They concede, however, that plans have been made to give the Kitty Hawk "the highest place of honor, which is its due."

That means the plane will be hung in the spot just inside the main entrance now occupied by the monoplane in which Charles A. Lindbergh flew from New York to Paris in 1927.

The Kitty Hawk was sent to the British national museum in 1928 because of a dispute between Orville Wright and the Smithsonian.

The disagreement concerning the full measure of credit due the Wrights was not finally resolved until 1943. That year Orville wrote to the British museum and asked that the plane be returned.

This was not disclosed until Orville's death at Dayton, O., Jan. 30. Later the British acknowledged the letter and said the plane will be returned when the executors formally request it.

The executors said they have "definitely determined it was his (Orville's) intention" to place the Kitty Hawk in the Smithsonian. But they still have not gone beyond a press statement. Legal complexities, including tax questions, must be settled first.

Many proposals for bringing the plane home in a grand manner have been made.

The Navy has suggested use of an aircraft carrier.

Two United States airlines want to bring it home by air.

A British steamship company offered its service at the usual fee.

The prospect is that persons interested in having the plane here will try to time its display in the Smithsonian with the next anniversary of the first flight at Kill Devil hill on the North Carolina coast Dec. 17, 1903.

Manufacture of a pair of modern ships involves 515 separate and distinct steps, and as many as 291 separate items.

Boyle's COLUMN

BY HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK — The old time "free lunch" is back—at least it has one foot in the barroom door.

It is coming back the hard way, one street at a time. So far it has been seen chiefly in poor men's stork clubs along the Bowery and Third avenue.

Hal Boyle
The new free lunch is only a morsel of its old robust self. But its comeback on Third avenue is significant. Why? Because Third avenue is to the elbow-bending gentry what the abeyard proving ground is to artillery—a testing field that sets the trend.

IN THE BARS along this noisy thoroughfare where roaring overhead "El" trains make conversation a muscular feat, Park avenue comes to ogle "the characters." "The characters" like to ogle right back. Fads that become popular here often set the pattern for the town—spread one way by "the characters" and the other by the penthouse "swells." This may spell a new future for the free lunch.

Time was when the free lunch was big enough to give a harvest hand the colic. Remember? For a nickel beer a hungry citizen of good standing could waddle over to a counter creaking under plates stacked with roast beef, baked ham, boiled ham, oysters, steamed clams, three kinds of cheese, hardboiled eggs, lunch meat, pickles, relish, stacked bread and huge slices of raw white onion, fragrant of Bermuda.

In the classier joints a burly bartender with a "keep off" look stood guard to shoo customers with rundown heels away from the trough. What happened to the "free lunch?"

"WHAT HAPPENED to it?" said one bartender. "They just ate it all up. Too many people got to thinking saloons were boarding houses." Others say it was turfed with prohibition. It didn't die out entirely, however. It survived in anemic form in the present cocktail hour custom of serving canapés. These one-bite-and-they're-all-gone sandwiches are so tiny that a big man can lose one in a hollow tooth.

These revolting delicacies, consumed more in sorrow than in anger, are blamed by some elderly bartenders as the real cause of increasing jitter among their unsteady clients.

"They're too small to support a vitamin," said one gloomily. "And what's in 'em—little bitty fish in erl, stuff that looks and tastes like toothpaste, cheese that don't even have a smell, and eggs that come out of a sturgeon instead of a hen. No wonder people get the shakes."

But if the free lunch makes a real comeback the canapés will be cut out — the hors d'oeuvres will have had their hour. This will be true in the homes as well as in the bars.

Whether she wants or not, a hostess will have to serve her cocktail guests king-sized pastrami sandwiches instead of embalmed minnows. That'll be the day!

Mrs. Taft Says Stassen Feared Equal Contest

CLEVELAND, April 16—Mrs. Robert A. Taft, wife of the Republican presidential aspirant, says Harold E. Stassen "has demonstrated his fear of an equal contest" by opposing her husband in only 11 of the state's 22 congressional districts.

Addressing a meeting last night sponsored by the Western Reserve Women's Republican club, she asserted the former Minnesota governor "cannot face an honest showdown."

Mrs. Taft said Stassen had publicly praised the Taft-Hartley act as a "good one," but he was seeking delegates only in the Ohio industrial areas where the law is unpopular.

Referring to Stassen's victory in Nebraska, she said it was "more or less expected because Stassen had won there before in 1944."

Paralyzed Veterans Offered New Outlook

CHICAGO—A rehabilitation specialist holds out new hope to veterans paralyzed from spinal cord injuries.

Dr. Louis B. Newman, chief of the physical medicine rehabilitation service at Hines Veterans hospital, said veterans partially or completely paralyzed by spinal cord injuries no longer face a helpless life.

He said intelligent and co-operative patients with partial use of their upper extremities can be taught to walk with the aid of braces and crutches.

Trained personnel, modern equipment and an "endless reservoir of ingenuity" are necessary to rehabilitate such patients, he said.
